By 1904, Dora Butler and her brother Joseph were running the 'Stationers and Printers' business, which had been set up in Altrincham by their parents, Samuel and Rachael Butler. They produced Guides and a set of local view postcards between 1904 and World War I, known as 'The Bowdon Series', which covered other areas as well.