The likely closure of Saint John's for repurposing, which was predicted to be at the end of 2016, prompted the digitisation of the church's archive of photographic material, which was kindly loaned to us by the vicar and pro-active churchwardens. As a result, a detailed exhibition covering the 150 years of the church's history was held within it, created by Stephen Birchall, with an accompanying brief guide to the features written by Sue Nichols. Digital versions of these can be found on the Local History Publications page. In addition, the Facebook page of Saint John's features many of the photos.
